

Small and Beginning Farmer Workshop

February 7, 2012

10:00 a.m.—1:00 p.m.

Backpack Sprayer Calibration

John Grande, Director Rutgers Snyder Research Farm

Learn more effective ways to use a backpack sprayer: increase sprayer accuracy, successfully apply alternative organic products, create greater farmer/operator ease, make better use of precious time and money, and increase safety.

Hand Tools for Weed Control

Ed Dager, Farm Supervisor Rutgers Snyder Research Farm

Observations from Rutgers trials of kaolin clay sprays on apples, potatoes and eggplant

Win Cowgill, Rutgers Agricultural Agent Hunterdon County

Crop Insurance Options for Small and Organic Farms

Garden State Crop Insurance Education Initiative

RCE of Salem County and NJDA

$20.00 Includes

Lunch and Pesticide Credits

Bring appropriate clothing for a brief session outside

Held at: Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Mercer County

930 Spruce Street Lawrenceville, NJ 08648

Small and Beginning Farmer Workshop 2/7/2012

RSVP with payment by February 1, 2012

Please send payment to: RCE of Mercer County 930 Spruce Street Lawrenceville, NJ 08648

Checks should be made out to: Mercer County Ag Education Fund

Name _____ Phone # _____

Address _____

Email _____

Attending _____ x $20.00 = Total payment _____